

District playing God

To the Editor:

Are we missing something? We keep reading about the Nipomo Community Services District annexing more and more new subdivisions. Who is giving them permission to play God with OUR groundwater? The NCS D are appropriators and are taking OUR water outside of the area of OUR aquifer. Even a child can see that it is then gone forever with no chance of percolating back into the groundwater such as overlying users have.

Now we read that they are considering a new more liberal annexation policy. When is this going to stop?

In one breath the NCS D are claiming we are in overdraft, to back up their lawsuit, which they hope will give them prescriptive rights. In case you don't know what that is, if someone takes something illegally for a number of years it automatically can become theirs legally. In the next breath they are saying we have plenty of water so they can freely annex more developments.

We really need to voice our opinions to the County and LAFCO before it is too late.

El-Jay Hansson
Arroyo Grande