

Dirty tricks in Nipomo?

Posted: Wednesday, March 7, 2012 12:00 am

Oceano CSD called the salt-water intrusion claim by NCSD "willful suspension of the truth." Here's another example documented by the federal government.

I received a flyer from NCSD postmarked Feb. 20, advising me of waterline workshops, three in January and one on Feb. 1. My rights as a taxpayer got willfully suspended one month and 20 days, and NCSD calls this community service?

In the old days, NCSD officials would have been tarred and feathered and ridden out of town. Our tax dollars even have to pay for a big-dollar consulting firm to tell them how to be tricky. Tricky Dick Nixon willfully suspended the truth in a much bigger town. He resigned in shame.

Nipomo is a much smaller town, but NCSD's crime is much bigger. NCSD has no shame. The spirit of Nipomo and the law are being crucified here. Where's the justice?

This is straight-up community betrayal for millions of dollars, not a few pieces of silver. Vote "no" on the waterline crime, and send the crooks to the unemployment line.

Daniel Diaz

Nipomo